WHAT ABOUT THE LAW

The Scheme to Let Out Coxeyites Three by Three

SAID TO BE CONTRARY TO STATUTES.

Then an Officer Intrusted With the Enforcement of the Law Grievously Breaks It Himself.

The twenty-five members of General Sanders' Commonwealth army who are confined in the Shawnee county jail are anxious to know how it is that United States Commissioner Wagner can hold some of them longer than others and will only let three of them out at a time. These men were sentenced to pay a fine of $20 each and costs, but according to the United States statutes when a prisoner has served thirty days on a sentence of that character and has made the regular poverty affidavit he shall thereupon be discharged.

These men have all made the required poverty affidavit before U. S. Commissioner Wagner, and their thirty days sentence will expire next Tuesday. United States Commissioner Wagner has arranged for a breaking up of the Commonwealth army by letting the men out three at a time, but some of the best lawyers in the city say there is no law for such a procedure and that these men should all be released at once when their time is out.

Commissioner Wagner has gone east on a pleasure trip and could not be seen about the matter, but his law partner, Mr. L. B. Welch, said the commissioner has discretionary power in such matters. Other lawyers say the commissioner has no discretion in the matter and one attorney who has made a careful study of the subject said this morning:

"Sec. 1142 of the United States statutes provides that poor convicts, sentenced to pay a fine or costs and both, may after thirty days imprisonment, apply in writing to any commissioner of the United States court in the district, setting forth his inability to pay the same, of which the United States attorney shall have notice that he may then appear, and that matter is heard before the commissioner."

"If on such examination he finds the convict has not any property exceeding twenty dollars in value, except such as is exempt, the commissioner administers to the convict the oath of poverty, and thereupon such convict shall be discharged. This is the law. It is stated that Mr. Wagner, the commissioner, has gone through with these proceedings, has declared these convicts entitled to discharge, has prepared certificates of discharge, has designated that three or four a day shall be so discharged, named the men for each day, left the certificates so that they can on the day for each batch's discharge, be given to the jailer, and has gone on east on a vacation to the lakes."

"It has been stated that the arrangement in letting them go, a few each day, was to disintegrate the army, and lose it in the shuffle."

"These men, if this be true, should be held for no such purpose; if entitled to their discharge, they should have it in due and regular course of business, and in common with all law abiding and law loving citizens, I beg leave to vigorously protest against this injection into public process which holds men in a prison cell, the desires and intentions of a committing magistrate, which have not yet crystallized into law."

LOTS OF GRIEF.

Considerable of It From Several Sources in Police Court This Morning.

James Buford, a colored boy, stood first before the judicial wrath to come of Police Judge Eastminger at the station this morning. He was charged with having stolen sugar from in front of a grocery store. Watermasons are better with sugar on their own know. After the usual mumbling (young culprits always mumble) he concluded he was guilty and the judge fined him $5 and he will work it out on the city rock pile.

Tom Arnold, who would be good looking if it wasn't for his voice, had been loading around the property of the Santa Fe, which is, of course, a violation of all law, and he was arrested for it. He said far be it from his intention to cause any unnecessary trouble by his presence and asked permission to remove it. The judge thought the city could worry along without him and let him go.

Mr. Wm. Buckley was in the same box. He realized that he hadn't done exactly the right thing and seemed so sorry about it that the judge let him go too, for which the prisoner was very thankful, and said so.

Denials There Agate.

It was poor old man Dennis' regular morning again and there were tears in his eyes as he stood before the police judge for the second time this week, charged with being drunk, and fingered nervously his hat. With a broken voice he pleaded guilty and was fined $5. Before leaving the room he made several efforts to speak but there was something in his throat and the words came with an effort.

"Jedge," he said, "Jedge, couldn't ye send me to the poor farm? I'm a broken down old man, jedge, I am. I've tried so hard to let liquor alone, jedge, an' it seems as if I can't somehow. I was as good a man as you once, jedge, an' respected, too. Down in Alabama I was a probate judge an' was doin' well, but some way I got to drinkin' an' here I am. Please, jedge, let me go where I can't get it." Many a hardened heart was moved at the old man's pitiful eloquence as he stood there broken and nervous, the perspiration standing out on his white forehead, but the judge said no, he could do was to send him back to the cell and promise that the chief would do what he could for him. The Keeley league might look after his case.

"Failed By De Roadside."

There was a sigh of relief along the benches after this as Mr. Hunsinger called the name of a man and a young man who were charged with disturbing the peace. Officer Hicks had arrested him and a young woman whose name has never appeared on the docket before, while they were out hack riding at three o'clock this morning. Both had put up for their appearance but the young woman failed to respond and sent word that she was sick and could not appear. There was a lack of witnesses and after examining the prisoner, who had pleaded not guilty, and two officers, the case was continued until Tuesday morning.

From the evidence it appears that the young man in question, who is employed in one of the numerous drug stores in town, had been out to a party and was returning in a hack with the young woman and a young man, when the hack was stopped by a couple of men who wanted to get into the drug store. The prisoner wanted to know what they wanted, but they refused to tell him, and thinking it was simply one of the numerous cases of chronic thirst, he refused to go unless a prescription was produced in evidence that medicine was needed.

This was not done and the dispute was getting above summer heat when Mr. Hicks appeared with his official dignity and announced his intention of arresting the entire party. But for reasons best known to himself, he didn't and only had two to show for his trouble this morning. The prisoner admitted that the party in question was one at which more or less of the afterdinner amber was consumed but disclaimed being in the least drunk because he didn't get that way. It was not professional. It was simply the case of a young man who had become somewhat tired of a high moral tone of living and had feared for a relaxation. He had relaxed and been caught at it, though it was not exactly all his fault. He will probably be able to prove his innocence, when his case, which was postponed, is called up next week.

PAY FOR THEIR JUNKET.

Expenses of County Commissioners to Colorado Charged Up to the County.

The quarterly report of the county auditor makes the following interesting statement in regard to expenditures on the new court house:

F. L. Stevenson, estimate No 2.....$1,200 17
J. C. Ho and, architect fees.....1,200 57
E. A. Bailey, fees county surveyor.....50 00
J. L. Campbell, expenses to Colorado.....14 20
J. L. Knight, expenses to Colorado.....18 20
F. L. Stevenson, estimate No 3.....1,100 20
Real Estate Abstract Co. abstract Van Buren street lots.....10 00
Van B. Iradier, registering new court house deeds.....60 50

It is a little remarkable that the county commissioners have the boldness to charge the county with the expenses of their trip made to Colorado last winter to look at stone, when they stated at the time that the trip was to cost the taxpayers nothing.

Commissioner Campbell puts in his bill for $14.00 and Commissioner Knight charges up his expenses as $18.20, and then allow their own bills.

POPULIST LEAGUERS.

They Held a Meeting and Listened to H. N. Gaines.

The Populist league held its regular meeting last night. Officers were elected for the quarter as follows: President H. H. Brown; vice president, J. M. Harrington; secretary, J. E. Anderson; treasurer, J. M. Hart.

A colored quartette which has been organized for campaign purposes sang several selections. State Superintendent Gaines was the principal speaker. He made his usual speech. He cast his lordly gaze over the audience and before they knew it took them all to China. He took poor John Coimman by his pig tail and held him up before the wondering gaze as an example of the results of autocratic government.

From China he danced around over Europe, stopping now and then to put his massive foot upon some old world government fallacy. When he had annihilated all the European governments he came home for a little while and talked about monopolies and things that his auditors knew something about and then sat down.

A man named MacRoberts who runs the Wanamaker post office west of the city then made a short speech.

Kindergarten interests.

The board of managers of the Kindergarten association at their meeting this morning had under consideration the question of securing an accomplished trainer to conduct the normal school and superintendent the various kindergarten schools in the city. They have the opportunity to obtain the services of a lady who is now conducting this work in connection with kindergarten schools in Providence, R. I., the kindergartens of that city being a part of the public school system. She is a lady of the very highest qualifications and one who if she came here would in addition to the above work, conduct the mother's meetings and in a general way lead and superintend the kindergarten work of the city. The question is one of such importance and involves such a large outlay of money that it was decided to submit the matter to the Kindergarten association at a meeting which is called for Tuesday morning at 9:30 in the parlors of the Copeland hotel. All interested in this work and who favor this advance movement, whether members of the Kindergarten association or not, are invited to be present at the meeting.
